OFFICERS ELECTED PLAN QUICK DRIVE FOR TESTING UNIT FOR T. B. TESTING

New Association Formed for Fulton, Lima and Milton Sections.

Rock county has now five cow testing associations with immediate prospects of two more being formed early in December.

For the Fulton, Milton and Lima district an association has been organized through the work of County Agent R. T. Glasco, now pushing the association organization work in the county. The officers for the Milton association are as follows: Grant Rice, Milton, president; Edward Sommerfeldt, Edgerton, vice president and R. V. Hurley, Milton, secretary and treasurer.

W. J. Dougan, Beloit, addressed the farmers interested in the association giving practical facts in the way of charts and production figures on the need of dairymen controlling their own production of production of every cow. The necessity of using purebred sires with high production dams was brought out by giving examples in the Dougan Guernsey herd.

A second meeting of the farmers in this district will be held next Monday, December 4. It is hoped to have this association started early in December.

The next work is to divide the Beloit association to one for Beloit and Newark a second association for the Hanover and Orfordville section and to divide the present Evansville-Fortville circuit into two associations. This number would put the county in a tie with Barron county for a total number of associations. To add to the number it is later hoped by the county agricultural workers to form associations for Janesville and one for Clinton. The farm leaders and dairymen in the county are seeking to put over 10 associations before early spring. This would give the county a commanding lead in association records and be a big boost to develop dairymen. Known production records are almost as necessary to sell dairy cattle as to record for the bovine tuberculosis test.

Instant Quaker Oats

Cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes

The Quaker Oats flavor has won millions the world over. This brand dominates wherever oat-lovers live, for we flake it from queen grains only.

Now there's a quick-cooking Quaker made from those same queen grains. It cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. It is the quickest-cooking oats in the world.

The oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small thin flakes cook quickly.

Say which you want. In either regular or Instant you get the finest flavor oat flakes ever had. In Instant you get the quickest-cooking oat dish in existence.

There are now those two great reasons for insisting on this brand.

Y. M. C. A. HAS FEW MORE SCHOLARSHIPS OPEN TO VETERANS

A few scholarships in Y. M. C. A. correspondence courses remain, according to John Koller, industrial secretary of the local association and local representative of the United States Y. M. C. A. schools. If application is made for these by ex-service men before Dec. 31, it is probable the scholarships, sometimes paying the full expense, and always at least half, can be obtained.

A number of Janesville ex-service men have already taken advantage of the scholarships, for which no requirements are needed, and are now working on their courses. There are 200 courses from which to select, covering a range of activities, both industrial and academic.

Further details can be secured from Mr. Koller.

"Lightnin'" Was An Impossible Play

—according to the professional critics, who wrote caustically of the first performance. But the public did not agree with them. "Lightnin'" is the most successful play of the decade.

Most merchants of the old school, predicted disaster for the stores that upset tradition by their decision to dispense satisfaction and service instead of merely so much goods for a price. Progressive retailing rules today—by the power of public approval.

SWEDISH INVENTOR HAS NEW OIL LIGHT

Chalmers White and Huch Chenper Light Than Electric or Gas.

Edison enabled us to enjoy the benefits of electric light. Countless billions of mankind made it possible to have the incandescent gas light, but it remained for a Swedish engineer named Johnson, now living in Chicago, to devise a lamp that would burn ordinary kerosene oil and produce a light said by the many scientists who have seen it to be whiter than electric. The lamp is as simple to operate as the old style oil lamp, burns without odor, smoke or noise and is providing a sensation where oil light is needed.

Mr. Johnson offers to send a lamp on ten days' free trial and will even give one to the first user in each locality who will help introduce it. A letter addressed to E. Johnson, 409 W. Lake St., Chicago, will bring full particulars about this wonderful new lamp. He has an interesting agency offer, too.

Robinson Herd Is Sent to Chicago

Four prize ribbons were won by the Hereford herd of J. C. Robinson and Son, Evansville, at the American Royal Live Stock show in Kansas City last week. The herd took 5th prize for the three best bulls of any age shown among twenty-three groups of competitors. Other prizes were won in the aged herd, get-of-sire, and senior yearling heifer classes.

The Robinson Herefords had the honor of being the first to be housed in the new barn which are a part of the half-million dollar American Royal Exposition Building just completed in Kansas City. The fact that Wisconsin, America's great eat dairy state, sent the first beef cattle to be housed in the new Royal Building caused much comment at the show.

Visitors to the Royal saw a wonderful Hereford show. Tremendous crowds viewed the exhibits and the judging. The Herefords led all breeders in the number of animals exhibited and their splendid showing made many new friends for the great breed of Whitesides.

From Kansas City, the Robinson Herefords have been taken to Chicago for the International Live Stock Exposition December 2-9. Eighty-six exhibitors from twenty-three states and Canada have entered 156 Herefords in the International. The Herefords lead all beef breeds in the number of entries made for the Chicago show.

Record Crowd at Dance.—With more than 500 people at a dance attending the 27th annual ball given by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen in the armory, Janesville, last night, was claimed the biggest success in the history of Rock River since No. 210. Many declared it to be the largest crowd they have ever seen at a dance in Janesville.

Dancing began at 8 o'clock and continued until 3 a. m., with more than 150 couples staying until the last dance. The music furnished by the orchestra was at its best and the crowd was numerous. Other two-step and few of the other old-time dances were interspersed with the newer steps.

The hall was decorated with streamers running from a festoon in the center. Trainmen's red lanterns and signal flags hung from the lights and around the windows. The arrangement committee was composed of W. F. Bates, L. B. Dulin, and H. Schmidt. As floor chief, H. Lindley had the following assistants: J. Bartlett, Joseph Decker, George J. Cadman, Albert Schumaker, Robert Brown and Thomas Cohen.

Country Club Dance Success.—The Country Club's annual Thanksgiving dancing party in Apollo hall, Thursday night, was the usual success with 75 couples attending. Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pullen, Evansville, Ind., a number of Janesville students, with friends, from the University of Wisconsin, Marquette, Milwaukee, Downer and Rockford colleges. Richard Farnsworth announced the benefit dance to be given here Jan. 2 for the Memorial Union Building fund for the state university, music to be furnished by the Fairbanks orchestra. BLAINE WOULD END LAKE CANAL SUIT

Sees Damage to St. Lawrence Project if Action Against Illinois Continues.

(By Associated Press.)
Madison.—The hopes of Lake Michigan ports for a deep waterway to the Gulf of Mexico are being shattered by the decision of the U. S. Supreme Court to restrain the state of Illinois from diverting waters of Lake Michigan to the Chicago Drainage Canal. Governor Blaine today announced that he would ask the U. S. Supreme Court to restrain the state of Illinois from diverting waters of Lake Michigan to the Chicago Drainage Canal. He said that the state of Illinois is diverting waters of Lake Michigan to the Chicago Drainage Canal, and that this is a violation of the St. Lawrence project. He said that the state of Illinois is diverting waters of Lake Michigan to the Chicago Drainage Canal, and that this is a violation of the St. Lawrence project. He said that the state of Illinois is diverting waters of Lake Michigan to the Chicago Drainage Canal, and that this is a violation of the St. Lawrence project.

When on his trip through the Mississippi valley Governor Blaine said he was asked by Wisconsin if it is interested in the development of waterways. He said that the state of Illinois is diverting waters of Lake Michigan to the Chicago Drainage Canal, and that this is a violation of the St. Lawrence project. He said that the state of Illinois is diverting waters of Lake Michigan to the Chicago Drainage Canal, and that this is a violation of the St. Lawrence project. He said that the state of Illinois is diverting waters of Lake Michigan to the Chicago Drainage Canal, and that this is a violation of the St. Lawrence project.

After calling Mayor Hoan that the drainage canal afforded the only feasible route from Chicago to the Mississippi river, necessary for the waterway, Governor Blaine said that "what he feared was the development of water to this canal, it is inconsequential compared with the larger benefits to flow from water transportation."

"Besides," he said, "if the litigation were successful and a permanent injunction were issued against the state of Illinois then the hopes of Lake Michigan ports for a deep waterway to the Gulf of Mexico are being shattered. He said that the state of Illinois is diverting waters of Lake Michigan to the Chicago Drainage Canal, and that this is a violation of the St. Lawrence project. He said that the state of Illinois is diverting waters of Lake Michigan to the Chicago Drainage Canal, and that this is a violation of the St. Lawrence project."

Madison.—Failure on the part of Gov. J. J. Blaine to understand the purpose of the action started by Wisconsin against the state of Illinois to restrain the diversion of waters of Lake Michigan, was given today by E. M. Hoyt, deputy attorney general, as the cause of his criticism of the governor's action. Mr. Hoyt is handling the litigation for Wisconsin.

"In our complaint before the U. S. Supreme Court we ask only that the state of Illinois be enjoined from diverting water in excess of the amount which the court shall determine to be reasonably required for the purposes of navigation in and through the Chicago Drainage Canal. We do not ask that the state of Illinois be enjoined from diverting water in excess of the amount which the court shall determine to be reasonably required for the purposes of navigation in and through the Chicago Drainage Canal. We do not ask that the state of Illinois be enjoined from diverting water in excess of the amount which the court shall determine to be reasonably required for the purposes of navigation in and through the Chicago Drainage Canal."

"We had intended making the litigation a test case for the purpose of determining the amount of water which the court shall determine to be reasonably required for the purposes of navigation in and through the Chicago Drainage Canal. We do not ask that the state of Illinois be enjoined from diverting water in excess of the amount which the court shall determine to be reasonably required for the purposes of navigation in and through the Chicago Drainage Canal. We do not ask that the state of Illinois be enjoined from diverting water in excess of the amount which the court shall determine to be reasonably required for the purposes of navigation in and through the Chicago Drainage Canal."

"County board, enclosing county action for two years, cannot repeat action until time is up, attorney general's office in Madison rules."

WISCONSIN AND THE DRAINAGE CANAL.

Governor Blaine went south recently to talk Wisconsin and Wisconsin products. He was the state's salesman. He was given warm welcome and spoke well for the state. But in addition to being a salesman he was well sold. The people of Memphis and St. Louis and Chicago sold him the lower Mississippi valley and the drainage canal. From Chicago by way of the Chicago river and the drainage canal the waters of Lake Michigan are carried to the gulf. In the course of a few years the Michigan lake level has been reduced. All the harbors on the Wisconsin side have been damaged. Thousands of dollars have been required to dredge new, deep channels. Ten thousand dollars was spent last year to deepen the Milwaukee river. As the years go by, the lake level, so competent engineers say, will be still lower. The drainage canal is used for water-power outside of carrying off sewage and keeping the Chicago river from beating the world record as a purveyor of evil smells. The drainage canal never has and never will be much more than an open sewer. To make it a navigable stream and commercially valuable, millions of dollars would have to be spent. Then there would be the limitations put upon it by the Illinois river. This channel of a lake to the Gulf route has been discussed for a half-century or more. The Mississippi should be used as a freight carrier, but it is not. The efforts to successfully operate a number of barge lines have failed. Freight from St. Paul to St. Louis is negligible and steel barges have not proved a good investment in carrying between St. Louis and the gulf. Millions of dollars have been spent on improving the river. It ought to be used, but isn't—that's all there is to it.

But they sold Mr. Blaine the navigation dream—those clever St. Louis folks and the clever Chicago waterpower promoters. Wisconsin wanted to protect her interests. A suit was brought in the courts against Illinois for damaging the lake by reducing the level of the water. That suit is still pending. Now comes the governor and no-doubt Mayor Dan Hoan, of Milwaukee, that he is going to have the suit dismissed as soon after the 1st of January as is possible. Mayor Hoan protests. The governor says the navigation idea is more important than the small cost to Wisconsin caused by lowering the lake. He wants to trade off what we have for hope of something that is intangible and a chimera. We will never have a better time than to settle the question of whether Chicago can drain Lake Michigan to wash away her sewage sins, than right now.

We are all in favor of the St. Lawrence to the Gulf route for our grain and products. We want the sea brought to us here. It depends on the lake level as to how successfully that may be done. Lower Michigan a foot and the cost of the St. Lawrence route is increased by many millions of dollars. Every city along the lake should enter protest against the dismissal of this suit to save the lake navigation. That lake shore is ours, our birthright, and we cannot afford to swap it blindly for a mess of pottage which is not yet pottage, only a mental picture.

Wisconsin shorthorns at Chicago ought to bring long prizes.

AT LAST AWAKE AND DOING SOMETHING.

The administration is awake at last to the fact that there is such a law as the Volstead act and the eighteenth amendment. Mr. Daugherty has issued a statement to all his staff of attorneys in the country calling attention to the failure of the government to enforce the laws against illegal liquor traffic. The cabinet has discussed the subject. The president has written a letter which shows he is sadly skeptical and that the question is seemingly too big for him to solve. The fact is that we have invited all this. Mr. Daugherty in connection with Mr. Lasker, at a time when the liquor laws were more on trial than even now, was of the opinion that we should permit the sale of liquor on ships. That broke down a wall of public opinion and made many people who were ready to accept the law as final, doubt a government which would permit fish for one and flesh for another. Then we have had so many cheap ward politicians appointed as enforcement agents that corruption among them has become a by-word. Add to that the rich man who set himself above the law, the complaisant attitude of the judges before whom bootlegging cases were tried, the pardon power of governors applied to aid the violators, the conspiracy of nations against the United States as to break down the wall of prohibition, the interposition of international law with collusion of officials and support by the liquor newspapers, the ease with which the Canadian distillers could get their products to the United States, and a number of other obstacles backed by the billions of dollars, of corruption money of the brewers, distillers, bootleggers, importers, ship owners, and wealthy customers, and it is plain why we have not had prohibition enforced more thoroughly.

In Tulsa, Oklahoma, is a district attorney who caused to be dismissed every liquor case on the docket. He said the people did not want prohibition and he would not prosecute a single case. "Booze can run down the streets so far as I am concerned," said this district attorney.

It is time to go to the mat with this defiance of law. The government came to a sensible conclusion about it when the scandal of the army and navy football game at Philadelphia received

FILES AND WASTE PAPER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington.—A sheet of paper is a light and flimsy thing, but by the process of multiplication, it becomes a problem. Each year the problem of what to do with sheets of paper looms bigger in the Federal Government establishment.

Rudyard Kipling wrote a rather lengthy poem entirely about the files. He found it a fruitful subject. Experts have written lengthy prose articles about files and manufacturing companies and business colleges have lots of expert advice to give concerning files. The reason the subject is so important and has so many commentators is that files represent, first, the records of what people have done, and second, they represent an ever increasing problem in storage. First, they are vehicles of information; second, they are dead weight. On both counts, they require much attention.

A good example is the Interstate Commerce Commission. By following a case through that body, an idea can be obtained how the files of the body are built. A shipper believes slips of paper, grow in bulk. He fills a car with the commission. This starts a new file. It is given a docket number. The commission notifies all railroads involved that the complaint has been filed and they must defend the existing rates. These notifications are made slips of paper. A hearing is set by the issuance of an order. Another slip of paper. Testimony is taken, evidence being given on both sides. This may add anywhere from a dozen sheets of typewritten paper to half a ton of typed and printed material, depending on the importance of the case. Sometimes great stacks of statistics called exhibits, intended to illustrate the justice or injustice of rates are added to the documentary evidence. Then all parties file briefs, which are printed arguments. In a big case a brief may be as big as an unabridged dictionary. All of these must be retained in the files. Finally, the commission renders an opinion and issues an order. These are added to the files.

There are some half dozen cases a day brought before the commission and each new case starts another file which grows as the case progresses. All these papers must be retained as they are Federal records. The problem is growing constantly and it is expected that the commission will have to erect a great warehouse in addition to its present commodious quarters, merely to store these slips of paper.

The Patent Office is another government agency where files accumulate rapidly. The General Land Office is another. Since the war the Veterans' Bureau and the War and Navy Departments have built up mammoth files. All the other departments, commissions, boards, and bureaus slither under the same ever-increasing incubus consisting of slips of paper, each one of which is too light to lift anything but a precise and sensitive scale.

These files must be tended, too. Thousands of clerks are employed merely to take care of them—to put new slips of paper in and talk old slips of paper out for examination.

It is proposed to build a Federal Hall of Archives and when that is done, many of the files will be concentrated and the pressure on existing office space will be lightened by new every government building at Washington is bulging with files.

Beside the vast quantities of papers retained in the files there is a daily output of waste paper which may be disposed of. In an establishment as great as the American government waste paper is more of a problem than seems possible to the ordinary citizen who finds that a library waste-paper basket, emptied perhaps once a week, amply takes care of his needs. The problem is big enough to have a special committee of the House of Representatives in general charge, the Committee on the Disposition of Unnecessary Papers in Executive Departments. This committee periodically supervises the throwing away of papers which have become useless or which need not have been kept at all.

There are many manufacturing departments in the American government. There are various kinds of waste in all of them. One of the most interesting examples is that presented by the Government Printing Office and here, again, it is a question of paper. In the course of printing and binding, so great an accumulation of waste paper constantly is being piled up that the public printer annually asks for bids from purchasers of such waste who utilize it for remaking into fresh paper. Good prices are obtained for this product, which offset, in part, the actual waste. Did recently were called for the removal of this waste from the printing office. Mention of some of the items will indicate what a big waste paper basket the government printing office has. It is estimated that during the six months from next January to June 30, the waste will amount to 5,000,000 pounds of shavings from blank and blankbooks; 25,000 pounds of shavings from white book papers; 300,000 pounds of shavings from various white and colored papers, strawboard and such bookbinding materials; 350,000 pounds of printed paper waste; 2,500 pounds of manila paper clippings; 1,500,000 pounds of wrapping paper waste; book cloth, buckram clippings and rumpings; 75,000 pounds of cuttings from strawboard, pulp board and other binders; boards; 5,000 pounds of twine and rope; 125,000 pounds of discarded and mutilated publications; 2,000 pounds of discarded and mutilated account books and ledgers. This is a total in the neighborhood of 2,000,000 pounds of waste paper, pasteboard and twine. A fifteen-hundred-ton waste-paper basket!

The contractor who is awarded this waste must remove it at frequent intervals, as it accumulates during the period his contract covers. If he did not, the Government Printing Office would be literally crowded out of its buildings; its waste basket would grow bigger than his shop.

During the war when a special effort was made by the civil branch of the government to economize, a good deal of paper was saved which, in ordinary times, is thrown away. William C. Redfield when Secretary of Commerce, started a useful fund which saved the government probably thousands of dollars. He gave instructions that for inside office memorandum use and the passage of notes between officials of his department, waste paper should be utilized. Much of the government printing is done only on one side of a sheet. Mr. Redfield had his department provided with supplies of such printed paper after it had served the purpose for which it was first used and his office work was done on the blank reverse side. Other officials of the government took up the plan and no taxpayer can have any just complaint of waste of paper in the government departments at Washington during the period.

an ailing by Secretary Denby and both Secretary Weeks and Mr. Denby started an investigation. It is not the little fellow who has been the menace to law and decency but the big dealer who can and does defy restraint and corrupt officials by reason of enormous profits, who needs to be placed in a cell.

Congress is not in favor of a "Better Speech Week."

The Hon. James Frear says the Wisconsin delegation will vote and act with the republicans. Since when did the congressman from the tenth district have the power to speak for this delegation? Will Mr. Volstead vote with Mr. Frear or with Mr. Berger?

There is no Volstead law in Europe forbidding the use of the Entente Cordiale but something seems to prohibit it.

JUST FOLKS

A THANKSGIVING PRAYER.

Lord for the beauty of the day,
The sun which drives the night away,
The stars which make the sky of night,
A jeweled canopy of light,
For splendors shining everywhere,
Accept today our grateful prayer.

Lord, for the leaf upon the tree,
The dropping of the summer bee,
The rippling wave of lake and stream,
The spider web upon the beam,
The swallow's nest, the robin's lay,
Accept our gratitude today.

From Thee alone these glories spring—
The beauty of the meadow's wing,
The gleam of the willow's leaf and reed,
The grain that has been harvested,
The fruit of vine and field and tree,
The mountain and the rolling sea.

Lord, beyond all pain and care
Exist Thy wonders everywhere,
The finest thing the eye can see,
Thou art a song of praise to Thee,
So for the beauty of the day
In gratitude to Thee we pray.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON

NEVER SEEN IN THE MOVIES

Cameo man with the peak of his cap in front. Basking girl in the water. Captain of industry who does not waste his time puffing at a large black cigar. Detective who doesn't wear a derby hat and mustache.

Here who does not wear a waspwaist suit from the House of fashion. Vampire who does not appear in jade earrings and black clinging gown. Comedian with shoes that fit him. Englishman who is not tall, thin and slightly stooped. Frenchman without a wisp of upturned mustache and a rosette. Newrich man breaking into society who does not shake hands with the butler.

Looks as though the time is slowly but surely coming when our representatives will have to begin representing.

Who's Who Today

EARL B. MAYFIELD.

Prominent among the new senators who will swell the Democratic minority in that body is Earl B. Mayfield, of Austin, Texas. He succeeds Charles A. Culberson. His nomination campaign and election attracted nationwide attention. He was nominated at the age of twenty-five and served two terms. Mayfield has been a prohibitionist ever since that issue has been involved in party politics. While in the legislature he was one of the authors of the bill that prohibited the operation of bucket shops in Texas.

The senator-elect is a native of Overland, Tex., son of one of its wealthy merchants. He attended Southwestern University, a Methodist institution at Georgetown, Tex., completing his law course there. At twenty-one he was admitted to the bar and began the practice of law at Meridian, Texas. Four years later came his entrance into politics and then began his career as a member of the State Railroad Commission.

Mayfield is married and has three boys. Both he and Mrs. Mayfield are popular in club and social circles of Austin and both are members of the Methodist Church.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

The Reaction on Newberry.

The fault with Newberry was not his spending habit alone or the spending habit of his friends. The election of 1918 in Michigan was a sort of Roman holiday for the political managers. It grew to be a sort of caricature of the Newberry election. There was a quality of cynicism in the method by which the professional boosters coiled up the Newberry vote. Bad taste was more conspicuous even than bad politics in all the preliminaries of the election.

Newberry has said that he didn't know what his friends were doing. All the rest of Michigan did. And Newberryism, as at last it came to have a meaning for the country, meant not so much a misuse of money in politics but a general disregard for the part of campaign managers of all the lesser political deceptions. It was the frank and cheerful abandonment of the rules of restraint that seems to have offended the public.

The reactions of public opinion to the case have been purely instinctive and in many ways illogical. For it seems to be the feeling of the public that if you are a good man, with a record that assures good conduct in the future and good works, you may spend as much money as you wish in a campaign for office. If you are not you will not have that privilege. There is too, a growing general suspicion that the more money you spend the less desirable you are likely to be.—Philadelphia Evening Ledger.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

Well, friends, you will note that we have quite a formidable array of materia medica in our collection—26 items in all, and if I had a substantial wagon tail and a gasoline torch and a banjo and some whippersnappers I could sing you a touching song about these 26 items. But those days are gone forever, save at a few country fairs and in some of our city parks where the city fathers do so much to uplift and educate the masses with attractions such as the flying leap through fire or the public suicide of the parachute jumper. Let us imagine that some such spectacle proves so attractive and the crowd only consists of a few fingers, thus disappointing the mob and cheating the educational authorities. Well we rush to the medicine cupboard and get the

THE MEDICINE CUPBOARD

Tincture of iodine is a solution of iodine in grain alcohol. The standard tincture of the United States pharmacopoeia is nearly three times as strong in iodine as the standard tincture of the British pharmacopoeia. The tincture of iodine is brown in color, and anything purporting to be colorless tincture of iodine is not iodine at all, but some other chemical compound like ammonium iodide, the use and effect of which are quite different from those of tincture of iodine.

Whether or not tincture of iodine is the best first aid application for fresh wounds is scientifically debatable, but practically speaking it is the best first aid remedy in the world war, soldiers carrying small capsules or vials of tincture of iodine to apply immediately to wounds. There is nothing else that I know of preferable to iodine in brown in color, and anything purporting to be colorless tincture of iodine is not iodine at all, but some other chemical compound like ammonium iodide, the use and effect of which are quite different from those of tincture of iodine.

Miners Win on Passes, 13-6-Break 3-Mile Run Mark

Copyright 1920, by Geo. McManus

ALL SCORING DONE IN OPENING HALF. MILTON SHOWS BIG

Calling upon the aerial squad twice in the first half for touchdowns while their opponents combined forward passes with line boring, the Wisconsin School of Mines defeated Milton college here Thanksgiving afternoon, 13 to 6.

The battle was waged upon a field heavy with mud. It was witnessed by 500 fans who braved summer-like showers. The win was the second of the year for the Platteville institution over Milton.

After the first two periods, the teams counter-attacked back and forth using all the plays they had developed during the previous week. Milton sought to turn the tide with showers of passes, but was unable to and the way over Platteville's goal line.

Though Milton held the western line straight throughout the encounter, it lacked a defense for overhead plays in the opening half. A forward pass to Muesel in the first five minutes, started the Brown and Blue off guard and resulted in an easy touchdown. The try for point from placement fell short.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Sorenson Makes Sensation Winning Turkey Feature

Setting a new record for the distance locally, Sven Sorenson won the third annual three mile turkey day run here Thursday. He covered the course over hill and dale, through city streets and outlying roads, in 16 minutes, 20 and 2-5 seconds. The time of the winner was 45-5 seconds better than last year.

Changeable showers that made going treacherous where the course was upon smooth pavements, and heavy where it traversed dirt highways made Sorenson's time the more remarkable. A bit of unusual stamina was exhibited by the victor in the last block, when seeing a runner close behind him, unexpectedly, he put forth a sensational burst of speed to keep the lead.

The runner, whom Sorenson saw turned out to be Justin Casey, who had dropped out exhausted and had returned to the contest after riding several blocks. Casey's action was done as a joke.

No exaggerating on this coffee question, because the facts themselves are sufficiently impressive. You can go through life and be happy, even if you never have good coffee to drink. HARDING FLATLY AGAINST KU KLUX

Secretary's Letter Defines President's Stand on Subject of Klan.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1922, by Janesville Daily Gazette.

Washington—Conferees between President Harding and Attorney General Daugherty have developed the policy that will be followed toward the activities of the Ku Klux Klan. Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, chairman of a presidential proclamation denouncing the Klan, but it was stated today that the president's last expression on the subject would have to stand, namely the letter signed by Secretary Christian and sent to Mrs. Frank L. Applegate of Meadford, Oregon, which reads as follows:

"You may be sure that any statement of the president's interest in or approval of the Ku Klux Klan is a complete and egregious misrepresentation of the president's attitude. In some quarters it has even been represented that the president is a member of this organization. Not only is that untrue but the fact is that the president heartily disapproves of the organization and has repeatedly expressed himself to this effect."

So far as federal prosecutions are concerned, they will have to follow conclusive evidence that the state authority has broken down and that federal interests have become involved. In other words, irrespective of the question of federal power to act, there is a desire here to build up the power of the states to depend upon themselves. If, of course, this authority should collapse or if state sentiment should be adverse to enforcement of law, the federal government will recognize the obligation thrust upon it.

Strengthening State
The problem of strengthening state government in America has almost come to a climax. The anti-lynching bill which is being fought so bitterly by the democrats in the senate is the republican answer to the indifference of many southern states to this question. The democrats claim the bill is unconstitutional and that the police power is vested in the several states by the federal constitution. The measure cannot come to a vote unless the republicans wish to risk all sorts of danger to pending legislation. The calling of an extra session after

Musician Out of Tune

"Gas pressure in my stomach sometimes distressed me so that I could not think. I played out of tune and twice lost my position. No medicine helped me and I became discouraged. Another musician advised me to try May's Wonderful Remedy, and I am now enjoying the best of health." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. People who use May's Wonderful Remedy, Drug Co. and Druggists everywhere.

March 4th, something which the republican leaders do not relish as yet, may be forced. If the anti-lynching bill is insisted upon.
Another example of the clash between federal and state jurisdiction is the prohibition amendment to the federal constitution which needs the help of the states or it will become a dead letter in some regions. The federal government would like to see state authority strengthened here, too. The growth of the Ku Klux movement is attributed largely to the attitude of many state officials who decline to use existing law to squelch the activities of the order. In fact the Klan is said to number among its members many of the very officers in whose jurisdiction prosecution would naturally fall.

No Co-operation
In the recent coal and rail crisis the authorities here hoped for co-operation from the states in protecting those who wish to accept employment but only a few states had governors who were willing to risk their political fortunes by an aggressive course. The desire to avoid political entanglement is the usual reason for the attitude of avoidance but the Washington administration is just as determined to make the states handle their own problems and it is safe to assume that the policy toward the Ku Klux will be applied in other questions, namely that federal aid will be granted only when it is obvious that state authority has broken down or that federal guarantees have been violated.

TOYLAND

WHERE SANTA CLAUS HAS HIS HEADQUARTERS

Old Kris Kringle never has been more bountiful in his preparations for the children's Christmas. Come and see!

The Christmas Spirit

For more than nineteen centuries the Christian world has regarded Christmas as a day of universal observance, of cheer and goodwill.

The spirit of giving was epitomized when those three Wise Men of yore traveled far across plain and desert to lay their gifts at the feet of a newborn child.

Christmas means giving—giving of our worldly goods to those less fortunate than ourselves; of our friendship and love.

But need we confine this spirit of giving to one day in the year instead of 365 days? It is in our power to give friendliness and service every day. It is this daily giving that really counts and shapes our lives.

SOLITE
A PERFECT
GASOLINE

Today we offer for the first time a super-motor-fuel, SOLITE GASOLINE

FOR years we have made 18 kinds of gasoline, each developed to meet a specific need. To this list of quality products we now add Solite Gasoline—the latest development in petroleum refining.

Solite Gasoline is for the many motorists

- who prefer a more volatile gasoline.
- who demand an instant, rhythmic purr from their motors
- who want more than so called "high test" gasoline
- who are willing for these reasons to forego economy of operation.

We have never been satisfied to make merely a high-test gasoline for power purposes. We have preferred to wait until our staff of petroleum engineers could develop a more volatile gasoline, without sacrificing any essential quality necessary in a motor fuel.

We have accomplished our purpose. Solite Gasoline represents a distinct achievement of the refiner's skill.

Heretofore we have made only our popular Red Crown Gasoline for power purposes. We will continue to market and recommend Red Crown Gasoline for maximum power at minimum cost. There will be no lowering of the quality of that powerful, economy fuel.

In our enthusiasm over the new Solite Gasoline we shall not indulge in superlatives. Prove the merits of Solite Gasoline. Try it in your car today.

The price? Surprisingly low considering the unusual merits of this new and better gasoline.

INTERURBAN LINES RECOGNIZE BUSES

Realize New Mode of Action Is Necessary to Maintain Service.

Traffic upon the passenger and freight traffic of electric interurban railways by motor buses is of such nature that officials of electric lines are getting their heads together to study a counter action to hold their business. This was brought out here Wednesday when representatives of the Rockford and Interurban railway and the Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light company met at the Chamber of Commerce.

With hard roads here to stay, the smaller type of automobile always to remain and the traveling salesman using the automobile more and more, the electric railways face a big problem, according to their own representatives.

"It will come to the point," said Charles C. Shoukley, general passenger agent of the Rockford & Interurban, "where the electric lines will have to use lighter cars with smaller motors and, in some way, operated entirely by one man. At the same time, we shall have to give up the good appointments and comforts of interurban cars."

In some places, it was said, bus line feeders as additions to electric car service are making the automobile electric bus the bus trade has not been in long enough operation to provide accurate figures for studying their cost of operation and net revenue. At the present time, it is pointed out, freight business over electric interurbans is picking up, probably because concerns are anticipating winter conditions.

It was felt that interurban men there will probably be a decrease in the number of privately operated automobile freight lines as such individuals learn the heavy cost of operation requires higher rates than now charged.

A cut in passenger and freight rates on electric interurbans is anticipated, it was suggested, with a possibility of greater use of communication vide books on some lines.
